

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

In a storage-based broadcasting system that automatically updates a viewer and provides a user interface unique to a service, a transmitting apparatus transmits a control content for realizing the user interface as the entire content or part of the content. A receiving apparatus receives and activates the transmitted control content for executing the user interface.